Congressmen are busy introducing their "bills."

Germany has in constant use 5,000,000 beer glasses.

Small-pox seems to be occupying the attention of the Albuquerque authorities.

Dr. Bliss, who will be remembered as having attended President Garfield, has refused to accept $5,500 for his services.

Albuquerque is an unhealthy locality for confidence men, several of whom have been arrested lately in that city.

The legal fraternity of Tucson are setting about a judicial reform for the Territory in a business-like way.

The have appointed committees from the bar who are to present plans for the necessary overhauling and changes that must be made.

The Tombstone journals protest against the stories of lawlessness that town. While these reports may have been true at one time, that place is now no doubt as law-abiding as any in the Territory and such injurious reports should cease with the evils complained of.

The best way, no doubt, for bona fide locators to do is to patent their claims at once. This will save annual expenditure and give a good title at the same time. A patent is a very good thing to hold in case of a sale. The English purchaser of mining property will not look at a United States patent, and it is an incentive to any purchaser to know that he is sure of a good title.—Scientific Press.

Moon is being said to be territorial cotemporaries regarding the question of railroad rates and fares likely to come up in our next legislature, and when we sum it all up they seem to be agreed that the matter should be regulated, but they differ, perhaps, as to the extent to which the regulating process should be carried. The Territory needs more railroads, especially the central portion; and when we have them the benefit they will be to us in the reduction of our present costly rates of transportation and the fact that we should deal leniently with them on this occasion that they may be encouraged to go on with the work of salvation. Suppose that laws were enacted whereby sweeping reductions might be made; it is apparent that enterprise of that sort would be very slow to take hold of a matter that paid a very poor profit compared with other branches of business. Our legislature should take into consideration the expenses of maintaining such a business in the Territory, and also the profits derived from business in general and allow to railroad a chance for a like margin. If in the future it is found that the profits of railroading in the Territory are disproportionate to those of other branches of business there will be ample opportunity to re-adjust the matter in future legislatures. In the present state of affairs the Territory can better afford to pay good fair rates than to be without railroads. The railroads we must have, and the rates of fare and freight, if not absolutely extortionate, can well be born by the people when the increase of business and value of property that will result are taken into consideration. We do not imagine that any of the railroad people will demand anything more than a fair business opportunity and that, in common with all other business enterprises of the Territory, should have. We are not among those that would cramp any kind of legitimate enterprise. The people of the Territory can not afford at the present juncture of affairs to be too

Report of the Tariff Commission.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.—Five hundred copies of the report of the tariff commission were received at the capitol yesterday. There was a great demand for them. The bill containing the proposed schedule of duties recommended by the commission has been printed in connection with the report. The Ways and Means committee will meet this morning to consider the report of the tariff commission. The bill suggested by the committee will be carefully examined. All members of the committee say there is no doubt that some measure for reduction of customs duties will be presented to Congress during the present month.

The Next National Republican Convention.

HARTFORD, Dec. 7.—The Republican National Committee is called to meet in Washington on Dec. 17th, to consider a plan of call for the next national convention.

Reorganized Mormon Church.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—The old Mormon temple at Kirtland, Ohio, where the first stake of Zion was set, has been reopened by the reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints. Meetings are being held and efforts made to secure converts. The minister says that Brigham Young was a false prophet and condemns his heinous life and precepts.

Boiler Explosion.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—The boiler of the propeller Morning Star exploded yesterday at the Bellair plantation. There were twenty-one persons on board. Three were killed by the explosion, eight drowned and six badly, perhaps fatally, scalded.

Ex-P. H. James and Dorsey.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 7.—The Commercial has a long special regarding the Star Route prosecutions. The writer pretends to know the inside history and says that Postmaster-General James started the prosecutions to revenge himself on Dorsey for the opposition of the latter to James' appointment to the Cabinet; that Dorsey and Brady's stealing were small compared with those of Monroe Sullivan, S. B. Elkins, J. W. Parker, J. B. Price or R. C. Kewens. James' idea seems to have been to shield the big rascals in order to catch the big politician.

Army Promotions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The following nominations are announced: Brigadier General John Hope to be Major General; Colonel Ronald S. Mackenzie, Fourth Cavalry, to be Brigadier General; Major Wm. A. Becker, Paymaster, to be Lieutenant Colonel; Deputy Paymaster General, G. W. G. H. Elliott, of the Corps of Engineers, to be Lieutenant Colonel of Engineers; Commodore Earle English, to be Chief of the Bureau of Equipment. The recruiting department of the navy has a large number of army promotions.

Arizona Indian Agencies Filled.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Among the nominations made by the President today were: D. M. Riordan, of Arizona, Navajo Agency, New Mexico; John W. Park, of Michigan, Colorado River Agency, Arizona; and A. H. Jackson, of Nebraska, Pima Agency, Arizona.

TERRITORIAL TWIG.

That old and substantial paper the Silver Belt, of Globe, comes out dressed in new clothes and swelled out considerably in size. It looks prosperous, contented and happy, all of which we wish it henceforth.

The Morning News of this country is increasing rapidly. We met twenty people yesterday coming direct from Utah. They brought their household goods and chattels with them and propose to settle at Smithville.

We learn from the Phoenix Gazette that Judge G. H. Rothrock was married to Miss Eliza Woods in that place on the 21st. Roxy, we extend congratulations, and only regret not being there.—Graham Co. News.

The San Bernardino Times comes to us with the news that a new and attractive dress, with columns enlarged and many signs of general prosperity, Bro. Isaac evidently has his feet on bottom, and good has bottom too.

Ahem! Come down, Martin; we have a few "jim jams" left that are evidently looking for a man of your capacity.

Taxes become delinquent on next Monday, when about 8 per cent. will added. Pay them up.

The citizens of Smithville are taking out a large ditch for their town and propose to set out hundreds of cottonwood trees on their streets. In a couple of years we expect to see Smithville a formidable rival of Phoenix as to beauty of location and enterprise.—Graham Co. News.

If the citizens of Smithville know what they are about they will never stick a single sprout of a cottonwood. Phoenix has one great regret to-day, and that is that our streets are set with cottonwood trees instead of ash, pepperwood or some other clean and graceful tree. The cottonwood on our streets will give way to something less dirty and generally annoying.

The Democrat has gone into the fish story business and gets off the following: "A strange animal, half man, half fish, and covered with a long growth of coarse black hair, has been seen several times recently in Big Chalky Popta River, Manatee County, Florida. The head and upper portion of the body resemble a man—short, sturdy arms, with webbed feet taking the place of fins, while the lower portion is just like the tail of a fish. The monster is about four feet in length, and when sporting about in the water utters coarcted guttural sounds, a cross between the barking of a dog and the bellowing of a bull. Several attempts to capture and shoot the animal have been futile."—Don't you know, Bro. Martin, that the thing is the missing ex-Senator Spencer for whom the Star Route prosecution is being looked up?

Sinking is to be recommended by the Gunsight Company on the Mass. field mine in the Wrighton district.

To a freight train today bound east, about twenty car loads of sheep were attached. They were en route to New Mexico.

Friday's Locals.

Taxes are delinquent after Monday. Pay them to-morrow.

Mr. Chas. R. Smith of New York returned from Santa Fe yesterday.

A small box attached to a B. & N. for $30 express made editorial snipe, there look blue yesterday evening.

Mr. E. G. Wager of Tip Top and his brother, Mr. Geo. O. Wager of Arkansas, arrived in town last evening.

T. Davis, representing T. G. Parker & Co., Merchant Tailors of San Francisco, will be in town on Saturday.

A daily attendance of 200 pupils at the public school now day, makes that institution a lively corner of the town during recesses.

The Baptists will hold their usual services at the Presbyterian Church Sunday. Morning subject, "Double Trouble." Evening subject, "Sin of Despair."

Mr. Michael Robbitt, 77 Sargent street, Calmes, N. Y., was cured of a very severe injured knee by St. Jacobs Oil, says the Rochester, N. Y. Sunday Herald.

Judge Pinney has gone East for his family and will return with them about the first of January, when the new home just north of town will be occupied.

The land on which the town of Phoenix now stands was originally set aside for school purposes, but by special legislative enactment the right of the town site was established. On the 20th inst. the final clearing up of titles will be made.—Citizen.

"The indications given of approaching changes of the weather by pains and muscular aches amongst those so afflicted, are often wonderfully active; but some of the best of these natural barometers we have lost since the people have been using St. Jacobs Oil."—Vennor's Montreal (Can.) Weather Bulletin.

There is one duty of our town authorities, a necessity to the public and to the future welfare of the town, that they should attend to at once. We allude to the establishment of an initial point of survey for town purposes. As the matter now stands, there is no certainty in the matter of town surveys; they can only be approximate, and that kind of business means immense expense and litigation in the future, should town property become valuable, as it is sure to in quite a portion of the town. The great advance in town property within the last four years admonishes us of what is to come as the country opens up. In view of this prospect, and while it can yet be done without much trouble, our town surveys should be corrected and kept correct by establishing a point upon which all future surveys may be based. Twenty-five dollars judiciously expended now would save as many thousands to our citizens that would be expended in litigation within the next few years. Will our City Fathers take the matter into consideration?

A Card to the Public.

VULTURE CRY, Dec. 4, 1882.

As I understand that Alexander J. Poter, who claims to be an assayer and mining expert, is using my name in connection with his business, I wish to inform the public in general that he has never worked with me nor for the Central Arizona Mining Co., as assayer, or in any other official capacity. Respectfully,

ROBERT STEINEGGER, Assayer C. A. M. Co.

Suddenly Weakened.

"I suffered with rheumatism of the back and hip for a number of years," said Mr. Thomas Morgan, Superintendent of Streets. "I was waited on by physicians, but they gave no permanent relief, and I resolved to try St. Jacobs' Oil. My rheumatism weakened at the first attack of its great enemy, St. Jacobs' Oil, and I was soon well."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Transit of Venus to-day.

A Spanish drama is in preparation for the diversion of Phoenix.

The flouring mill has temporarily suspended work, awaiting a supply of wheat.

The doors and windows for the M. E. Church South arrived yesterday, and Messrs Patton and Whitaker are finishing up the building.

The number of transits seen to-day depended much on the kind of whisky the observer used. One individual we noticed could distinctly see three Venuses all at once.

The Capitol Hotel has added a concert entertainment to its evening attractions, and our host, Mr. Tom Smith seems to be favored with the general prosperity of the town.

Mr. Mueller, of Prescott, arrived yesterday evening with his family, and will take up his residence among the Phoenixians. The more the merrier, and we hope he will be pleased to make Phoenix his permanent place of abode.

Mr. Paul R. Ruben, with his usual business energy is stocking his neat new store-room to replenish with holiday goods of all kinds. Read his new ad which enumerates some of the many fancy and useful articles in which he deals.

The many friends of Mrs. W. M. Campbell, who left for the East, a few days ago, will be pleased to learn that she has arrived at her father's house in Arkansas City, safe and much pleased with her journey and to meet the "old folks" whom she has not seen for fifteen years. She extends kind regards to all inquiring friends.

(From Thursday's DAILY.)

Business good.

Roads never better.

Jose Garcia, formerly a typo on the HERALD, has returned from his pacer in Mexico.

Rev. Winfield is putting up a neat residence on his lots across the street from the ice house.

Our cotton wood trees have disappeared and are now going in their figure. Notice its elegance.

Sheriff Orme has posted notices in all conspicuous places in town for all persons having no visible means of support to leave town within forty-eight hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Garfield have returned to town from the East and are putting up a fine residence just north of the Phoenix Hotel, which they will occupy in future.

Mr. Thos. Sherman and Mr. Jones, the "Pincare" crowd, left to-day for the Silver Bell mine located some fifty miles west of Tucson, in which Mr. Sherman is interested. He expects to be gone two or three weeks.

The Castle Creek Road.

(Communicated.)

Considerable has been said and written about this road within the last few months, but no definite action has been taken toward building it. The route has been located, and it is now settled just where it must go, and if the citizens and property owners of Phoenix want the full benefit of the trade that road will open up, they must build the road and not wait too long about it. There have been sufficient developments in the copper mines of Castle Creek to warrant the conclusion that they will soon become noted among the great copper mines of the world, and with Humboldt District, Silver Mountain, and Tiger District, all combined, will soon present a lively front. A very large share of this prospective trade is within the grasp of Phoenix, and its influence on the price of property in the town may be secured. But if the citizens and property holders of Phoenix think they can secure this trade without an effort, they are mistaken, and if they follow in the line of their proclivities, they will get left, and left in the cold too. It is within the power of Prescott to very successfully contest the right of Phoenix to the trade of this country, and although it will take about $40,000 to do it, when they come to see the point, the get up and enterprise of her citizens will soon devise a way to see the $40,000 and go it better. A wagon road over what is known as the Coulomb trail to the Falls of Castle Creek via Walnut Grove, will bring Prescott within fifty miles of any of the mines on Castle Creek, while they are sixty miles from Phoenix. A branch road from this one to Bradshaw Basin will bring them within about the same distance to that region, and be a good road all year. A road over the Coulomb trail, through Walnut Grove and down Castle Creek will bring Prescott and Phoenix within about 105 miles of each other. There need be no grade over 15 inches to the road on the whole route, and our neighbors up there may as well take under consideration the statement that this is the only route over which a railroad will be built from the south, and that it will be started from the south before it is from the north, Henry's job to the contrary notwithstanding. But it is not the opposition of Prescott that Phoenix has most to fear. That there will be three, and perhaps four, moneyed companies at work on Castle Creek and the Humboldt before the first of next March, there is not much doubt, and that those companies must have an outlet to Maricopa there is no doubt, and that they will have it there is no doubt either; but if they build it themselves they will build it for their own benefit and not for the benefit of Phoenix; that point needs no proof. There is nothing relating to the physical location of Phoenix that makes it a natural commercial center; but it has been established by the people of the valley and business and capital have concentrated here, and by proper management, with sufficient energy and enterprise, Phoenix can be maintained as the commercial center of Salt River Valley. But the principal travel road leading from north to south over which will pass all the freight to the Castle Creek and northern country from Maricopa may be a road that will be 15 miles nearer than through Phoenix, with a rival town to intercept the trade of the lower Gila; this is not a very flattering outlook for the property holders of Phoenix. If any one will take the trouble to examine a map that will show the position of Frog Tank on the Agua Fria, Phoenix and Maricopa, it will be understood what is alluded to above. A good, in fact a No. 1 road can be built from Phoenix past the Desert Well to Frog Tank on the Agua Fria, up the Agua Fria to the mouth of Castle Creek, up Castle Creek to the commencement of the grade at the head of the Creek, about three miles above the Falls, for about $2,500. This road once built, it is safe to say no other road to Maricopa will be thought of by companies at the head of Castle Creek or Humboldt. I heard a prominent citizen of Prescott say once, when speaking of another citizen then a merchant of Prescott, in contradiction to the Judge of the Third Judicial District, that when traveling to California on a buckboard, he would have enough to eat if he had to buy it. Now, we are in about the same fix. If we have a road up Castle Creek and will have it, if we have to build it; but it will not be profitable for the property holders of Phoenix to trust the engineering of that job to us.

W. C. COLLIER.

Editorial Notes.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR is calling about him new men and true for advertisement as to future proceedings. His advisors of the past have been used as a certain angel was once said to have been dealt with.

SENATOR LOGAN takes very decided grounds against the restoration of Fitz John Porter, and replies in a vigorous and effective manner to Gen. Grant's article on the case in the Atlantic Monthly, and shows wherein Porter was derelict in duty in a most convincing way.

THE President's message shows a most gratifying state of affairs to be existing with the German Empire, in which Germany has stopped the emigration of her paupers and criminals to this country. The United States should insist upon this same measure being enforced in the case of other countries. We shall soon have more paupers and criminals of our own then we shall be able to take care of, and the constant influx of this costly and annoying element should, must be stopped.

THE President dwells considerably on the subject of political assessment, and evidently regards it as a dangerous and disgraceful habit of politics. If the secret were out the fact is that leading politicians generally regard the late defeat of the Republican party as not only attributable to various local causes, but also to the general popular disgust at the shameful and open attempt to assess all persons holding government offices. The President has therefore seen fit to notice the matter in his message and recommend legislation regulating it.

A WIDER strip of what would be a fine arable land, were water to be had upon it, lies but a short distance to the north of town, not more than four miles distant. There are many thousands of acres in that locality that should be under cultivation and the broad acres of which now await the action of the gentlemen who have made a location of the initial point of the new canal which will probably pass as far to the north as practicable, and open up all these lands that are worth anything. The contemplated canal should be opened at the earliest moment and these lands thrown open to the public.

THE Miner advocates a division of the Territory with the Gila as boundary line in order to put down sectionalism. The people of this part of the country are perfectly willing to have the Territory divided, but then we have a sort of hankering for Prescott, and don't want to see her left out in the cold up there all alone, and shall therefore insist that the dividing line commence at Liverpool Landing on the Colorado and be carried due east to the New Mexican line. This would separate the Territory into two equal sections geographically, and give all that vast northern region of Arizona a chance to be and do something for itself, and then Prescott would be favorably situated to double up on the capital business, for no doubt each Territory would choose her as a favorable point for the propagation of their laws. If we can do anything in this part of the country to assist the scheme the latch string of Phoenixian generosity is out.

A SET of national leeches exist at Washington which must be sloughed off before the Republican party can return to a condition of good health.

Hubbel and Riddleberger are types of the element alluded to. They are not Republicans, but the Republican party is made responsible for their misbehavior by the people at large. They are not Democrats and the Democracy will gather the glory of choking them off. They are the dirty work department of Stalwartism, of which Conkling is king and Arthur has been high priest. We are of the opinion, however, that President Arthur will redeem himself from the political sins into which he has allowed himself to be led. He has dropped Conkling, apparently, and well he might when the remains of that brilliant party anarchist and tyrant lies buried beneath 100,000 majority in his own state. The will of the people is the will of God, to which even Conkling must succumb.

A SYNOPSIS of the President's message comes to-day in our telegraphic dispatches. The message is full of good recommendations, and altogether is a very able and exhaustive account of the standing and needs of the nation. The rapid accumulation of money in the treasury is pointed out as rather detrimental than otherwise to the national financial health.

More money is on hand than is needed to pay off the national bonds as they become due, and if the government attempts to buy them in the market an enormous premium must be paid, which will increase as the bonds grow scarce. This fact will, no doubt, have a great influence in Congress on the Internal Revenue reduction bill and the country can look for a great decrease of Internal tax and also on tariff, though on this latter proposition there will be no doubt a stubborn fight between protectionists and anti-protectionists without regard to party at all.

THE President advises an overhauling of our navy and the construction of first-rate armored vessels as cruisers. He also directs attention to a more important subject in our merchant marine, which, though talked about in Congress for years, still struggles and decays for want of legislative assistance. There is no reason why the United States should not have a merchant marine second to none on the high seas and do her own carrying as well as that of other nations, whereas she now annually is put to great expenditure more than sufficient to counteract the balance of trade in our favor, to transport her goods to and from the country.

THE RESULT.

THE MORMON settlement on the San Pedro is rapidly becoming one of the most prosperous and enterprising in the Territory. The people, like all Mormons, are industrious, frugal and adventurous, and they are not afraid of the means by which the wilderness is to be made to blossom as the rose. Such accessions to the wealth and development of the Territory are sure of a hearty appreciation and cordial welcome.

Prescott bids for an Indian school.

The ladies of Tombstone enjoy free skating while the lions of erection are required to come down upon the spongelux in order to glide on the treacherous wheel.

Tombstone papers come along quite regularly with the remark: "There was another attempt made to burn the town last night." Must be a delightful place where you can sleep in constant expectation of waking up with a heel already roasted for breakfast.

Silver Belt.—Some large sales of copper property in this county are now pending, and from what we learn of them, they are possessed of unquestioned merit. The new and various uses to which copper is applied, notwithstanding the product of Arizona, Michigan and Chili, will not cause a superabundance of the article. The demand for coating telegraph wire, both in the United States and Europe, will alone more than consume any increase that may be expected from the opening of new mines. Copper is only indigenous to certain localities and formations, and, therefore, we have our opinion that the supply will not be more than commensurate with the demand.

Citizen.—Three carloads of emigrants passed through eastward on Wednesday. There are 4,500 instead of 1,300 Indians in the San Carlos Reservation, as stated by some papers. Sisters Monica and Clara, of Tucson, collected $1,000.50 in Globe for aid of St. Mary's hospital.

Republican.—The vote of New Mexico at the late election was 28,440. The vote of the Territory polled at the late election approximates 11,000. Coal can be bought in White Oaks, New Mexico, for $2.40 per ton and sells in El Paso for 75 cents per hundred or $15 per ton. The Pinal Consolidated mine, in Pinal county, gets its wood cut and delivered on the road for $2 per cord. This is a small bonanza to the company itself.
